

VICTORIAN BAR

HOLDEN

Glenn Noel

The President and members of the Victorian Bar extend deepest sympathy to the family of Glenn Holden. For more than 10 years, he worked in Legal Aid – for the Legal Aid Committee, then a foundation Solicitor with the Legal Aid Commission. He was Head of the Magistrates' Court Section of the General Law Division. He was a driving force in creating, and he wrote, the first Duty Lawyers Handbook. He practised more than 27 years at the Bar mainly in Criminal Law until prevented by illness. He worked with the Northern Territory Legal Aid Commission and was a mentor to young Solicitors there as he had also been in Victoria.
